Staff meeting, during which we discussed the possible letter from the Secretary to M. Schuman on Tunisia and Morocco.

George Perkins and Paul Nitze went to the airport to see the Secretary, George on French affairs and Paul to report on his trip to London last week to discuss Iranian questions with the British Government.

E. went to New York with the Secretary and his party on the Independence.

Nathan Cummings of Chicago came to see me. He had lately been in Japan and Korea in connection with his grocery business. He gave me a disquisition on the rice situation in the Far East. Then we talked about pictures. He has for years been collecting French impressionists. In Tokyo, he picked up for several hundred dollars what he says is a fine work by Toulouse-Lautrec.

Willard Thorp has just returned from a swing around Europe in the course of which he attended the GATT meetings in Geneva. He is disturbed over the mounting anti-American sentiment which he found, some of which he attributes to the vastness of our official establishments abroad.

After lunch, we had a meeting with Paul Nitze and others interested in the Iranian oil problem at which Paul reported on his trip to London. We then had a large meeting to discuss tactics in connection with the presentation to the Bureau of the Budget of economic aid programs with particular attention to the Point 4 programs.

I went to dinner tonight with the Arthur Gardners, and at 9:30 saw Senator McCarthy on television. He is a nasty piece of work, but was [redacted] less violent than I had anticipated.
